Another Pedersen Charge Hits OU President Naylor

Another development in the Pedersen vs. OU controversy came to the fore again this week.

State Senator Henry F. Pedersen, Jr., of Omaha claimed that OU did not give legislators complete information on OU's financial status when OU sought a state appropriation last spring.

Pedersen says that if OU officials had done so, the legislators probably would not have appropriated the $4,000,170 for OU.

Pedersen claimed, according to a World-Herald story which appeared Wednesday morning, that a May 4, 1967, memo from OU President Kirk Naylor to OU Controller Harold Keefover shows that OU tuition could have been lowered this fall.

Pedersen further claims that this was not done because officials were afraid that such a move would affect the state appropriation for OU.

OU President Naylor stated at a news conference yesterday that these claims of Pedersen's could be discounted "completely."

Naylor showed the newsmen present, the memo that Pedersen used to base his charges. The memo was from Keefover to Naylor and presented budget alternatives for OU officials to consider in preparing the 1967-68 budget.

World-Herald newsmen, Fred Thomas, who had written the story which appeared in the W-H, stated that the memo mistake was his and not Pedersen's. He said that he had misread the memo.

"Small Active Core" Attend US Meeting

By John Prescott

Bruce Allen's "small but active core" of United Students (US) met again last Monday evening.

The "core" of eight students gathered to lay the groundwork for a constitution. Allen said "the purpose of United Students is to organize the independent student at OU socially and politically."

Allen went on to say that the biggest problem facing the group was financing activities to attract members. The group plans to have a membership drive within the next few weeks.

Five representatives of the student press also attended the meeting. Two were from the Gateway and three from the Lone Haranguer.

United Students in a word? "Retch," said the Haranguer. Humphrey was concerned with the number of times the Young Republicans were brought up in the evenings discussion. Allen is the Secretary of the YR's.

Haranguer Terry Humphrey, long an advocate of strengthening the role of the independent on campus, was less than enthusiastic about US.

Discussion on most topics by the group was light, and most of the suggestions forwarded by Allen were passed. "He will likely elect himself president," said Humphrey.

Fresh Grades

Freshmen mid-term grades are ready to be picked up. Freshmen should pick them up from their counselors at the counselor's convenience.

Convocation

Wednesday classes from 9:30 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. will be dismissed for an all-school convocation in the Fieldhouse. President Naylor will address students on the merger.

Editor Wanted

Any fulltime student at the University interested in editing the GATEWAY during the Spring 1968 semester is invited to make application.

Forms are available from Warren T. Francke, chairman of the Board of Student Publications in Room 116 Engg. Bldg. Deadline for applications is Dec. 1.

Student Wanted For SUB Group

The Student Union Board's Recreation Committee needs new members.

The committee will meet Tuesday in Student Center Room 234.

The committee plans recreation events in the Student Center. Last year the committee sponsored a billiard tournament and bridge lessons.

A student should have a full-time schedule to be a member.

Indian Win Needed To Take Fourth Conference Crown

By Gary Anderson

The eyes of the Central Intercollegiate Conference will be on the University of Omaha tomorrow as they square off at Hays, Kansas, for the CIC championship.

The host team, Fort Hays Kansas State College, shared the title last season with Pittsburg State. Both teams had 3-1 records.

This year, there is a chance that Fort Hays, Pittsburg and Omaha can all tie for the top spot with the same 3-1 slate. Omaha defeated Pittsburg 29-25 this year, then the Gorillas downed Fort Hays 13-7 last week. Omaha is undefeated in the conference this year.

An Indian win or tie is needed to give them their fourth outright conference crown since joining the loop in 1959. The other Omaha championships came in '62, '63 and '65.

Same Starters

The Indians have done little adjusting after a come-from-behind win over Emporia St. last Saturday. Head coach Al Caniglia said, "We don't intend to do anything but go out to win the football game."

Remaining at starting positions in the backfield, then, will be Greg Kavan, who Caniglia said did a "good job blocking" and Pat Smagacz who has picked up 245 yards in two games after filling in for the injured Ron Sayers.

Also to be intact is the Omaha defensive backfield.

This was the weak spot in the Omaha defense Saturday as Emporia rolled up 157 yards on 12 completions. Several of the passes were completed in back of cornerback Steve Haborak, including two touchdown tosses.

Commenting on defensive mistakes, Caniglia said, without mentioning names, that the Indians "misread on defense." "We just weren't ready mentally for the game," Caniglia commented.

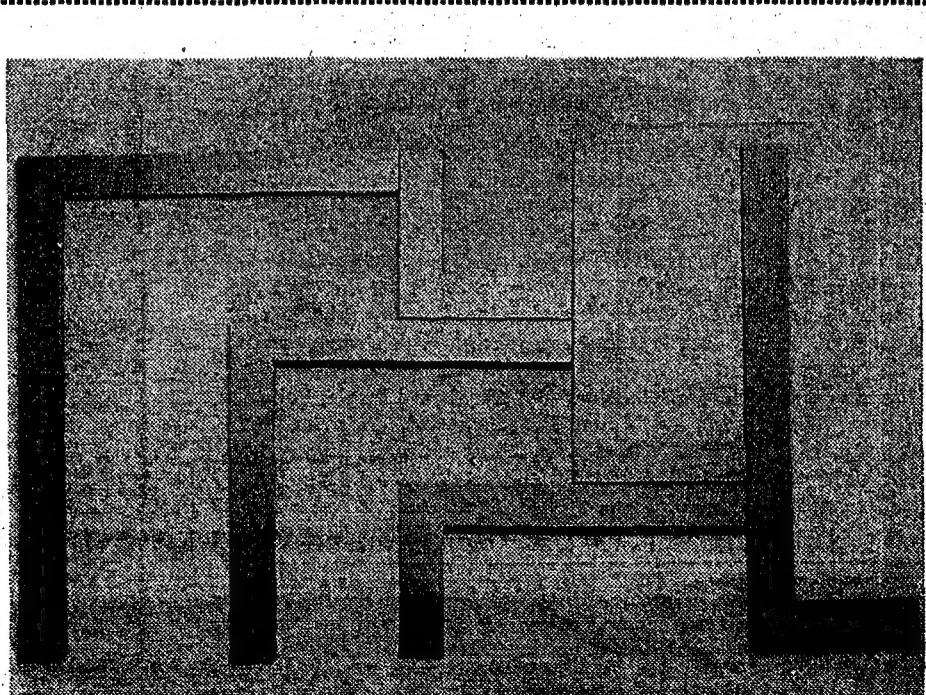

At quarterback, the Tigers will have Leo Hayden a 5-11, 196-pound senior. Hayden is a two letter winner and is labeled by Caniglia as being a "fair runner and passer."

Senior Rich Dreiling will lend admirably to the Tiger's strong running attack. Dreiling is a 6-1, 205-pound senior who gained 898 yards last season to lead the conference. Caniglia calls Dreiling "one of the better runners in the conference."

Indians Are Ready

The Tigers are coached by Wayne McConnell who is in his twelfth year at Fort Hays. McConnell's record at Hays is only 44-50-4, but before coming to the school he coached at College of Emporia. There he registered four undefeated teams from 1951 through 1955. He was named Coach of the Year by Rockne Foundation of Kansas City in 1953 for his second unbeaten season.

Omaha leads the series record between the two teams at a 6-3-1 clip. The Indians 19-0 loss last year was the only setback they have faced in the series since 1960.

Letters To The Editor

Freedom Has Obligations

Dear Editor,

I see that there are people at the University of Omaha who disagree with my opinions but this is understandable. If no one criticized my beliefs, there would be no reason to make them known.

It is my belief that man has only one life, and when one is dead, he is dead a long time. However, I do not support the man who will value life over his inherited freedom in America. I believe man has an obligation to support the freedom he has chosen. If he supports this freedom as a civilian or in the military does not really matter that much, but what does matter is how far he is willing to go.

Some people say that wars are morally unjust and I must agree. To this, I will say that history has proven that wars are necessary, whether the wars are moral or immoral has nothing to do with it. Besides, it would be wrong judgment indeed to expect a moral war!

Also, I agree that man lives, that his one enemy is death and that death has been spread in the name of great causes. However, the death spread in some of these great causes has made us free, and if we ever forget that, then we're dead already.

I'm sure there are people who agree with me but if there is not, I will gladly stand alone. I will happily die for my freedom and may God help the rest.

Willis Mohr

Ride N' Be Free

Culinary Delights

And Other Illnesses

By The Potamus

"Peas porridge hot, peas porridge cold, peas porridge in the pot, pretty darned old. Cup, 65c; bowl, 85c."

What a hell of a way to run a Swampi Room.

Me and Blues sagged against the stainless steel tray railing as a "dirty turkey" out of Macbeth fame scooped up some chow for a noon encounter with culinary disaster.

And, man it was hard to hack. Yeah, we knew just what was going into Mrs. Murphy's chowder, and it weren't good. Probably even Mrs. Murphy had a "foot" in it.

I could tell that Blues couldn't resist the temptation any longer. Quickly he quipped, "Say, what ever happened to that seventy-year-old sweetie you had doing the thing here?"

Our chow-line sentry and host gave a sickly grin and produced an aging set of falsies, (pearly white type) and said "she gave herself for the cause."

Murphy In The Chowder

"Hey, broad," Blues retorted, "what cause?" She hastily replied "cause we're out of meat, type cause."

Blues sagged. He was sick. It was Mrs. Murphy in the chowder, and Mrs. Murphy didn't need any more garlic.

As we reconnoitered our situation between the "Fritos" and the apple cobbler, a swinging, Jackie Gleason type came shuffling up and gave us greetings. "Hi, sports fans," he said.

We knew right away, it was the "lonesome Haranguer."

Blues came back with his familiar greeting for the man, "Hi-ya, 'Orang, how are ya, you ole hell raiser?"

"Sick, man," he replied. "They been putting green apples in the works and me and the troops got the queasies."

Yeah, we knew what he meant. And it ain't good for you, no matter what they say.

As we continued our lively conversation about our intestinal rumblings, some small cat with a beanie and strange markings upon-the plaque around his neck made way, gave us the "pardon me sir" shot, and said he had to get some goodies for the "chief priest" of his outfit.

Sawed-Off Friend

"Hey, man," Blues said. "That stuff with the oil slick ain't gonna do your guts any good."

Our short, sawed-off friend answered that the goodies weren't for him, he had to feed a famished fraternis.

Lord knows, they are full enough already.

Our trio finally made it to a small corner in the back of the room. We are gonna save the troops from the culinary conspirators.

But there wasn't much we could do. It was just like a dream by Upton Sinclair, right down on the kill-floor. And that ain't too groovy.

Me, 'Orang and Blues had a suggestion though.

Push the button, pull the chain, and the whole crew will be knee-deep in avocado soup.

"Active Core" Attends

After the meeting Allen defended his fledgling organization. He said that the US, like any new organization, will have trouble. He added that the group as it stands should be interested enough to get things off the ground.

How long will it take for the group to gather strength? "We hope to make a showing in the spring elections," said Allen.

What made Allen want to form US? The OU sophomore said his activities in YR's made him "interested in politics."

US will hold its next meeting Monday evening.

OU Speech Department Will Host Omaha Preps

After two years of planning, the OU speech department is prepared to host the Fourth Annual High School Speech Tournament, Nov. 10 and 11.

The tournament was cancelled last year because of room problems and the fact that tournament director Duane Aschenbrenner was hospitalized.

Events to be held are Cross Examination Debate, Boys' Extemporaneous, Girls' Extemporaneous, Original Oratory and Dramatic Interpretation.

Omaha area schools participating are: Abraham Lincoln, Bellevue, Benson, Boys' Town, Creighton Prep, Central, Holy Name, Lincoln High, Lincoln Northeast, Mercy, Marian, North, Rummel, Ryan, St. John's, St. Joseph, South, Tech and Westside. Newton High will represent Newton, Iowa.

Another Pedersen Charge

Naylor went on to say, in a prepared statement, that "Keefover's memo was an administrative advisory memo which provided me with several alternate schedules for estimating the income for the 1967-68 year. Each schedule contained an estimate of the amount of money to be received by OU as a result of the bill to provide state aid to junior colleges and municipal universities."

Naylor added, "The statements made by Keefover in his memo, which referred to the establishment of tuition rates for the 1967-68 year, were entirely appropriate and agreed with our consistent policy of being completely fair and honest with the state legislature."

Voices From Beyond Student Governments Share Activity Money

The Creightonian reports that the Student Board at Creighton University unanimously approved the proposal of the Executive Committee of the Student Board of Government.

The proposal establishes the division of the Activity Fee among the separate student governments. "The proposal provides for the allocation of one-fourth of the Activity Fee appropriation to the individual student governments of the schools and colleges per student enrolled on a full-time basis." This will go in effect in September, 1968 contingent of the passing of the increased activity fee.

Teacher Trouble

Students picketed Northern Michigan University, according to the Northern News. The students were protesting the release of history assistant Dr. Robert McClellan at the end of the school year.

Northern Michigan University's Board of Control gave Dr. McClellan a terminal contract at the offset of this school year. Four reasons were presented for the release of the history teacher. The reasons were: criticism of the 4-course plan at the University, implication that this plan was approved by pressure from the vice-president of academic affairs, activity as chairman of the Committee on Student Affairs when he encouraged students to protest against new dormitory conditions and activities with the families of the area in fighting the University's expansion program.

McClellan has received faculty and student support causing his case to be reviewed.

Dorm Discrimination Denied

From the Daily Nebraskan, an act to prohibit discrimination in the dormitory system on the NU campus was approved by the Inter-Dormitory Association Council. The approved act forbids discrimination "based on race, creed, or national origin." The act prohibits discrimination for social functions as well as activities involving dormitory funds.

Vietnam Week Fails

Also from the Daily Nebraskan, we learn that Vietnam Week was a failure. "Only 952 students and faculty members (five per cent of the eligible voters) turned out to express their opinions in the conduct of the Vietnam War."

"The voting turnout says a great deal about the kind of education people are getting here," said Student Senator Al Spangler.

Midlander In Mediterranean

According to the Midland, Charles P. Arnot, American Broadcasting Bureau chief for the Mediterranean area, will be presented an honorary degree at Midland College today.

A Midland student for two years, and a native of Scribner, he has been stationed throughout the world. Among other things he has covered the sinking of the United States aircraft carrier Hornet, the battle of Guadalcanal and the invasion of Guam, Prime Minister's Churchill's victory announcement, the Korean conflict, the first Anglo-French air raid on Cairo and the Congo crisis.

Business Censors News

An editorial in the Dakota Student at the University of North Dakota complains that the paper is being censored by the business. Since 70 per cent of the issue of a four-page newspaper must be devoted to advertising, the news staff was forced to leave out many important articles.

Student Progress

From the State College Leader, the library on the Fort Hays campus will soon be open more hours. It seems that the library study-in held a few weeks ago has brought results.

A survey will be taken to see when the library is the busiest. Student requests for an extension of hours to 11 p.m. are being considered.

Washburn Worships Idol

The Washburn Review reports that students at Washburn University are in for a weekend of sponsored entertainment. Saturday and Sunday Washburn will be packed with Roaring 20's, Gay 90's and jazz.

On Saturday night three of movie idol Rudolph Valentino's films will be shown. Valentino's great grand nephew will be there impersonating his famous ancestor. The winner of the Valentino look alike contest will be announced.

Saturday night will also host the Gay 90's festivities and on Sunday the jazz section will perform.

Coffee Brews Expression

Students at General Beadle State College, Madison, South Dakota, have opened a coffee house, according to the Eastern. The "Something Else" is a non-profit happening.

"The coffee house is a place where people go to discuss things and to feel at ease to express freely anything that seems pertinent at the time."

Courses Mingle

According to the Daily Nebraskan, the Student Senate at the University of Nebraska has voted to support the establishment of interdisciplinary courses.

Student senators approved a resolution urging the University to develop programs "wherein the students from various disciplines would come together to work on and study common or specific problems, projects or talks facing society today."

Editor Attacked

Jim Vaszko, editor of San Francisco State College's Gator was taken to the campus medical center for treatment of injuries he suffered after he and members of his staff were attacked by 12 Negroes.

Two other staff members and an instructor were injured. No motive was given for the attack.

OU Will Select 150 Hostesses

Omaha University has been selected to provide hostesses for this year's "Fantasy of Trees."

The fantasy is an annual display of exotic and fanciful Christmas trees made by Omahans. The trees cover a great range in originality and variety, from the smallest jeweled tree in a picture frame to the largest ornately decorated Scotch pine.

OU Chosen

Presently by the YWCA, the "Fantasy of Trees" is the annual fund-raising event for the organization. Large crowds have attended every year.

Each time a different group hostesses the fantasy, and this year OU was chosen. Waokiya, senior women's honorary, is responsible for organizing 150 volunteer hostesses for the project.

The display is scheduled for Monday, Nov. 27, from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., in the Town House Ballroom. Waokiya is asking that OU co-eds who are willing to help will volunteer their time.

17 Coeds Needed

Hostesses will take tickets, pour tea and coffee, mingle with the guests, or direct the flow of traffic. Street dress is worn.

Approximately 17 hostesses will be needed at any one time, so a large group of volunteers is needed.

Any co-ed who wishes to participate should indicate her free hours for Monday, Nov. 27, along with a preference for the hours most convenient for her to serve. The note may be left in the Waokiya mailbox in the Student Center.

Deadline Today

Letters concerning the "Fantasy of Trees" hostesses have been circulated on campus this week by Janet Archer, president of Waokiya. Volunteers may also contact her or other Waokiya members for information. A member of the honorary will confirm times to serve with individual hostesses and explain duties.

Waokiya asks that volunteers apply by Friday afternoon, Nov. 10, in order to organize the large group of hostesses in cooperation with the YWCA's "Fantasy of Trees" project.

KWOU Swings

Early Monday morning, a new sound will echo throughout the OUampi room. The sound will be hard rock, and rhythm and blues, broadcast from KWOU. The juke box will be disconnected and replaced by the new music format.

KWOU officials are very optimistic about the new format. Station manager, Craig Swope, says, "We are going to have to come on very, very strong to be a success." KWOU will be rocking continuously from 7:30 a.m. to 3:00 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Fifty disc jockeys are scheduled to run the rock show. However, program director, Mike McCurdy, says about ten one-half hour time slots are still available. Anyone interested in becoming an announcer for KWOU should contact Robert Hutchison, faculty advisor, Craig Swope, Mike McCurdy or Jim Kay, news and sports director, in the KWOU studio in the engineering building.

Experiencing mid-semester traumas, all-night studying and overdoses of "nodoz"?

"Hints on How to Study," a brochure, prepared by Phi Eta Sigma, national freshman men's honorary, are available in Room 218, Adm. Bldg.

Vietnam Medals Given To

2 AFROTC Instructors

Two OU Air Force ROTC instructors were decorated yesterday.

They were decorated in recognition of their recent achievements in Vietnam. Receiving medals from OU President, Kirk E. Naylor, were Major James R. Mathews and Captain Samuel L. Hall.

Maj. Mathews, a 37-year-old native of Springfield, Colo., received the Bronze Star Medal for his outstanding contributions while assigned to the Strike Plans Division of 7th Air Force Director of Combat Operations at Tan Son Nhut AB in Saigon. He is now the director of education and training of OU's Air Force ROTC detachment.

Capt. Hall, a native of York, Nebr. and a 1961 graduate of the University of Nebraska, was awarded three medals. They included his second Distinguished Flying Cross for heroism, the first through third Oak Leaf Clusters to the Air Medal and the Air Force Commendation Medal. While in Vietnam, Capt. Hall was assigned to the 37th Aerospace Rescue and Recovery Squadron at Da Nang AB and flew 102 combat rescue missions.

Both Maj. Mathews and Capt. Hall began their duties as instructors at OU this fall.

Indians Swamp Emporia 31-26; Clinch Conference Deadlock

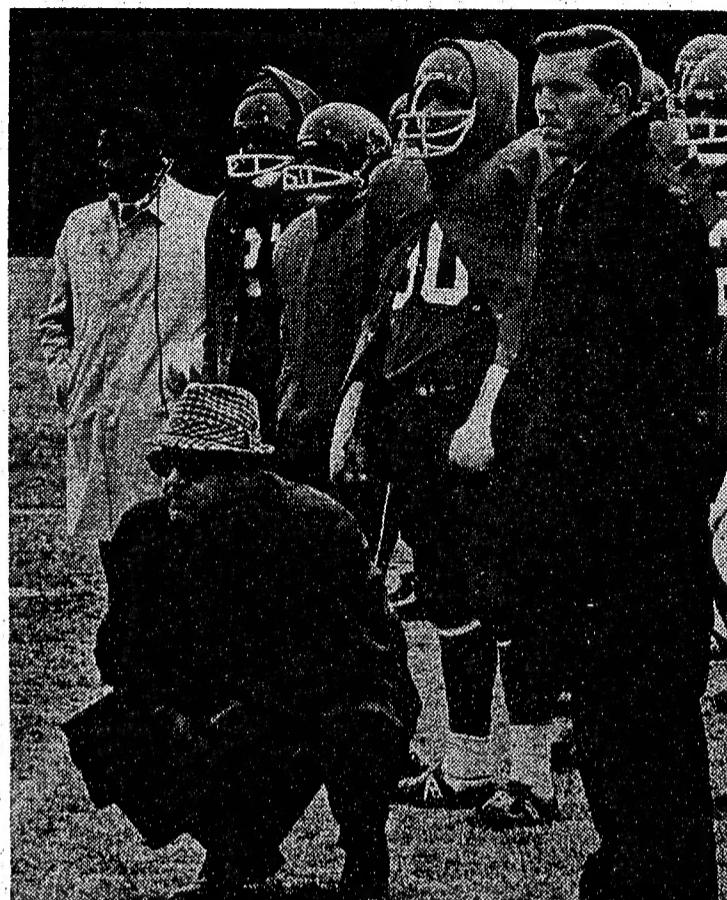

The University of Omaha clinched at least a tie for the CIC Championship Saturday by beating Emporia State, 31-26, while Pittsburg State was downing Fort Hayes.

"It was one of those games," commented coach Al Caniglia "we played just well enough to win."

"It's hard to be up for every single game when a team plays a schedule like we have this year," said Caniglia, who placed the victory on the team's desire to win.

Coach Caniglia tabbed the team with playing "just poor defense and offense" and a few individual mistakes was "what kept us from playing a real good game," he added.

The Indians failed to take advantage of the wind during the first quarter in which quarterback Briscoe failed to attempt a pass. In the second last 11 for the first OU tally. One-yard scoring plunges by quarterbacks Castillo and Briscoe evened the game at 12-all at the half.

In the opening minutes of play in the second half Steve Haborak brought the chilly crowd to their feet with a thrilling 75 yard touchdown jaunt on the kick-off for an 18-12 lead.

Other Omaha scores were on a Briscoe to McKernan pass which covered 32 yards and a one-yard plunge by halfback Pat Smagacz who gained 121 yards in 18 attempts.

Garrison Intercepts Pass A Lew Garrison pass interception in the third period stopped a possible scoring attempt for Emporia, putting the game out of reach.

Indian quarterback Briscoe attempted only eight passes for the game completing three for a total of 49 yards.

The Indians trailed Emporia, who has yet to win a game, in total offense 424 to 258.

The game saw Bill Hass miss on four consecutive extra point attempts after making seven in a row against Washburn the week before.

Wrestlers Face 'Steam' Room, Heavy Workouts

Imagine a room the size of your bedroom and place it at the west end of the Omaha University Fieldhouse.

Open the door. It's like walking into a searing heat wave from an air conditioned building. The walls and floor are covered with thick red mats and at one end sits a fading desk with a battered alarm on top.

The workouts begin with calisthenics and a variety are included. On the hot, sticky mats the wrestlers must execute 60 sit-ups, 40 pushups, numerous jumping jacks, hip twisters, stretching exercises, and finally 10 more pushups, but on the fingertips this time.

After climbing the rope they head for the "steam" room again and begin a series of exercises and mock wrestling matches which will condition them to wrestle for six excruciating minutes against a man of their own size. Each workout is ended with 10 more 50-yd. dashes.

Lettermen Initiated at Banquet; Dr. Kennedy Outlines Club's Role

The "O" Club initiated several old and new members in formal ceremony and banquet in the student center Sunday night.

The guest speaker for the banquet was Dr. Paul Kennedy who presented an outline of areas where the "O" club could help the University. One area stressed by Dr. Kennedy was recruiting.

"You can be a tremendous recruiting force," he said. He pointed out that the more contact made with local high school athletes, the better the chance of them attending Omaha U.

Dr. Kennedy said the organization could also help develop pride in the athlete, encouraging him to finish his studies at the University. "Organize a club people will be proud to identify themselves with," he said.

Senior Bill Haas, club President, and Jerry Ferguson told of future "O" Club plans.

An "O" Club lounge where athletes can study and enjoy activities together is being planned. A Hall of Fame to honor those excelling in Omaha U. athletics is also in the making.

Bill Haas pointed out in closing comments that the success of the "O" Club depends on the members, and the organization could be a tremendous help to the school.

Basket Ballers Eye Fast Break, Platoon To Offset Lack Of Height, Browne

Put together the full-court press, the fast break and speed and one would have Coach Jim Borsheim's blueprint for Omaha University's 1967-68 basketball campaign.

The Indians, short on height, will stress these tactics plus a possible platooning system to set a fast pace.

The only real sore spot for Coach Borsheim is the loss of CIC rebounding leader Dennis Browne, the starting center. Browne's loss could be eased by John Mackey, former Tech standout and Moberly (Mo.) Junior College transfer and Russ Leger.

Bill Haas and Tom McKernan, of Indian football fame, figure highly in the bid for forward assignments. Haas and McKernan will enter the picture as the football season ends Nov. 18. They will have competition from Don Williams and Steve Kupcho who have been manning the forwards through practice sessions.

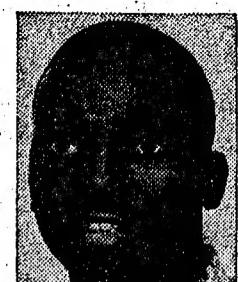

Coach Borsheim predicted that "we'll probably be far behind last year's team at the outset but I have a hunch we'll be ahead of it at the finish."

The Indians hope to improve last year's 6-2 conference record and the tie for the title with Washburn. Omaha finished with a 12-8 overall mark, best in recent years, after being beaten by Doane College in the NAIA playoffs.

At Ring Side

with

Rudy Smith

The question of whether Kearney State will accept the invitation extended to them, two weeks ago, to play OU in a Nov. 25 Centennial Bowl game, will be answered this week end.

Kearney is ranked fifth in the NAIA top ten with the first four teams getting play-off berths at the end of the week.

Tomorrow the Antelopes clash with undefeated Northern (S.D.) State at Aberdeen which without a doubt will be their toughest opponent of the season.

There are several championship games on the line this week end. The first being an intramural game which will decide the intramural championship. For those spectators who can't attend the OU-Ft. Hays game the intramural game at 3:30 p.m. today should be just as thrilling. Come early for a good seat on the grass, it might be a sell out.

Sunday there will be a sports car rally at OU in the free parking lot starting at noon. Trophies and prizes will be awarded to winners in the following divisions: faculty and staff, students, powder-puff (girls) and frat actives.

Entry fee will be three dollars which will not be used to purchase molotov cocktails or will it?

According to the sponsors, the Lambda Chi pledge class, any make or model of car may be entered.

Female Gridders and Kanger

At most colleges men's intramurals is a close runner-up to the major sports at the college. But not so at Chadron State Teachers College.

Even though they are in the minority the women have a near monopoly in the intramural sports department. They have soccer leagues, field hockey, swimming in addition to the lighter sports of volleyball, basketball, badminton and bowling.

How valuable is Bernie Kanger to the defensive team of the Indians? According to the OU defensive statistical chart his very presence is very evident.

In eight games a total of 33 players have made at least one tackle or assist. Kanger has been in on 90 tackles thus far which is more than the combined total of the bottom twenty defensive players that have seen action with the defensive unit.

FCA To Meet Here Sunday To Establish Chapter

Three representatives from the Fellowship of Christian Athletes will be on the OU campus Sunday at 3 o'clock in hopes of establishing a chapter at the University.

The organizational meeting will be held in room 312 of the student center.

The FCA is a national organization which tries to confront athletes and coaches, and through them, the youth of the nation with the challenge of following Christ.

"The FCA brings together sports figures and athletes through a commitment to Christ which will enable them to become better athletes, better men and serve as examples of what God can do," said coach Don Benning.

The program started in 1954 and held its first national conference in Estes Park, Colo. in 1956.

Representatives from the Fellowship of Christian Athletes will be Dick Harp, George Atcheson and LeRoy King.

Harp is a former Kansas University basketball coach and is now a fulltime FCA staff member at Kansas City. He coached a number of All-American cagers including Wilt Chamberlin, in addition to capturing several Big Eight titles.

Atcheson is the FCA staff publicist and has a masters degree from the University of Alabama where he was sports information director.

King is the FCA associate director and a former Northwestern University basketball star. He is an ordained Methodist minister and a fulltime staff member for the FCA.

The 6-8 King played basketball with Rochester in the N.B.A.

Harriers Look To CIC Next

The University of Omaha cross-country team left this morning for the C.I.C. championship meet to be held at Pittsburg State on Saturday, Nov. 11.

Coach Lloyd Cardwell expects defending champ Ft. Hays and Emporia State to be "real tough." Cardwell said, "Hays and Emporia each have an experienced team. Emporia has three seniors and Hays has two who have been running well this season."

Representing OU will be Rich Carey, Gordon Sweeney, Bob Gehringer, Jim LaFavor, Bob Franzese, Ray Smith and Don Glasgow.

A. D. Benson of Wayne State sped over the four-mile Elmwood Park course in 21:16 Tuesday afternoon to lead Wayne to a second place finish in a triangular meet with Peru and OU.

Peru edged out Wayne to win the meet 25-38. The Indians took third with 73 points.

Sophomore Rich Carey, the Indians' leading point getter, finished 11th in the 30-man field with a time of 22:41. Gordon Sweeney ran for his best time at Elmwood this season, 22:47, for a 13th place finish.

Alley Cats Surpass Zeta Juniors Team

The Alley Cats have tied last week's leaders, the Zeta Juniors, for the top spot in the WRA bowling league this week.

Both teams hold 11-3-1 won-lost records. The Alley Cats surpassed the Zetas in total pins, however, 8418 to 6862.

High individual game honors went to Joyce Vacek, who rolled a 186 game. The Alley Cats were the high team series leaders. Their three game total was 1806 pins.

The WRA sponsors a Co-ed Badminton tourney on Nov. 16. The event will take place at 7 p.m. in the fieldhouse. Entry fee for the competition will be a can of food. The food along with a turkey will be given to a needy on Thanksgiving as part of the WRA's Thanksgiving project.

Shaw's philosophy paid off handsomely last season after the regular OU punter, Harold Lenz (now at Wayne State), was out with a leg injury the final three games.

The 21-year-old promptly responded to Coach Al Caniglia's call for punters and averaged 34.3 yards a kick in the trio of encounters.

Intramural Roundup . . .

Unbeaten Fan Tanner Feels Foot Of IDGAF

IDGAF "footed it" past the Fan Tanners last Tuesday in a stunning finale to regular intramural football league action.

The four point spread, 10-6, was attributed to the capable legs of Jim Estey, who kicked the extra point after Mike Danze's scoring aerial to Galen McCluskey, and Danze, who kicked a 25-yard field goal.

All IDGAF scoring came in the second half to offset an opening half touchdown by Fan Tanner John Capellupo.

The outcome marked the sole loss for Russ Clark's squad this year. The Tanners finished at 7-1, atop League II standings. IDGAF ended in a tie with Zircons at 5-3 for third place.

Lambda Chi Wins In Overtime

Monday, an enthusiastic crowd of more than 100 spectators assembled on the north bank of the Pep Bowl in hope of witnessing two games of awesome offensive power between the Blackshirts of Lambda Chi and the Sig Eps in the opener and between the Dirty Thirty and the Association in the second contest.

Lambda Chi scored on a Greg Clasen field goal in the first half for a 3-0 lead. Sig Eps tied on a 30-yard field goal by Tom Crews in the final half.

A sudden death play-off was decided on the second play from the overtime scrimmage. Sig Ep back Ed Ganey fumbled after a yard gain and ever-present Blackshirt Irv Rehder recovered.

Accumulated yardage of six yards handed the victory to Daryl Hill's Lambda Chi squad.

In the second game, the larger and more rugged Dirty Thirty had their hands full all afternoon, trying to contain the smaller and less experienced, but gallant, nine of the Association.

Despite the hard running of Richard Lee, the Dirty Thirty were held in containment until the waning moments of the game when Thirty quarterback John DeGeorge finally connected on a ten yard field goal after three attempts, for a 3-0 lead.

The Association then put together their best scoring drive of the game on three completed passes and a run, only to have it foiled by an interception.

Opportunist Shaw Tops CIC; Still Wants To Run The Ball

By Randy Owens

An opportunistic Omaha University gridder is convincingly accomplishing a double "assignment" this fall.

Substitute quarterback Ray Shaw, OU's punting specialist, is not stumbling over his words, let alone his able feet, in 1967.

The modest junior, whose gridiron career lists four different positions overall, claims no favorite football station:

"I prefer playing on the field instead of on the bench. No real football player has any preference; he just wants to contribute, in any way possible, to the team effort."

Shaw's philosophy paid off handsomely last season after the regular OU punter, Harold Lenz (now at Wayne State), was out with a leg injury the final three games.

The 21-year-old promptly responded to Coach Al Caniglia's call for punters and averaged 34.3 yards a kick in the trio of encounters.

Number 43's opportunism bubble grew to even bigger dimensions this fall: he has led the Central Intercollegiate Conference (CIC) punting leaders all season, has broken Lenz's '66 OU mark of 36 punts in one season (Shaw now has 41) and, most important, has played a part in the '67 OU grid success story.

Shaw maintains a 38.4 yard kick average, has a 1572 yardage total on punts, and holds OU's 41 kicks-in-one-season mark.

Since his transfer from Doane College in the fall of '64, the Omaha South graduate has seen little game time until his punts began sailing this year.

At the outset of the '65 grid campaign, Shaw sustained a rib injury which held him out of any action for the entire year.

After a spring of optimism in which the Indian punter saw action in the scrimmage finale, the handsome Shaw endured one of his biggest gridiron disappointments in the fall of '66.

The situation developed upon the loss of All-American quarterback Marlin Briscoe after the first game due to a neck injury. Lew Garrison, then Bill Haas took over. Needless to say, supposed quarterback Shaw was a little discouraged:

"I was discouraged about not being able to win the quarterback job, but I was glad to get to punt."

Such is the sincerity of the Indian gridder who "would still like to run the ball. I wish we had a fake kick play but it would just be taking too many chances."

The Shaw system of punting includes "waiting until the other guys get downfield before punting."

The opportunist calls his kick method "the three step cheater. You're only supposed to get two steps before the kick (teaches Coach Carl Meyers), but I sneak in a third. It just relaxes me."

So far, the junior has had no punts blocked despite the three steps. But, really, that's not unusual. Ray Shaw doesn't let obstacles block his pathway. After all, his motto is "Everyone ought to do their part in helping the team."

Reading head, John Query, takes a picture of reading student, Lynn Warnock's eyes.

Rotary Club Hosts Senior Luncheon

The Omaha Rotary club will host 125 OU seniors at their annual Senior Executive Day Program, Nov. 14.

The luncheon program begins at 11:15 in the Student Center Ballroom with Mr. J. D. Anderson, President of Guarantee Mutual Life Company, as featured speaker. Mr. Anderson spoke at the luncheon in 1963 and was so well received by students, the Rotary asked him to return this year.

The Rotary club sponsors this complimentary luncheon to help seniors understand more about the business of the economy they will find themselves in after graduation.

"PAN" AND "MAN" . . . The "Cutest Pan" and "Ugliest Man" will be announced at an all-school dance next Friday in the Student Center Ballroom.

The dance and the announcing of the winners will cap a campus U.C.S. drive.

The candidates for the awards represent various campus organizations. A candidate will win the title "Cutest Pan" or "Ugliest Man" if his or her group collects the most money.

'Eye' Improves Reading Ability

"The trial run has been successful. The machine has definitely proven itself."

John Query, head of Omaha U's reading lab, spoke enthusiastically when referring to "the machine."

According to Query the Reading Eye was developed 30 years ago and has been refined to a high degree.

The function of the Eye is to photograph eye movement. The student reads a short story on a card placed on the machine. While the student is reading the eye movement is photographed.

By looking at the film Query can tell if the student is regressing, the reading rate and comprehension.

The whole process takes about 15 minutes. All of the students enrolled in the reading improvement classes have had a chance to use the eye camera.

for the Muscular Dystrophy at businesses downtown.

DRIVERS . . . Competition will center in four classes Sunday as the Lambda Chi Alpha pledge class holds an all-school car rally.

Registration will begin at noon Sunday, west of the Engineering Building, for these classes:

(1) faculty and staff division (2) general division (3) powder-puff division and (4) Lambda Chi Alpha division.

Winning drivers will be awarded trophies in all divisions with a sweepstakes award for the overall winner.

The rally, open to all drivers, will commence at 1 p.m., following a rules explanation.

Registration fee is $3.

MIGRATION . . . Over 40 students will migrate to Hays, Kansas, for the CIC championship game between the OU Indians and the Fort Hays State Tigers tomorrow.

The group is comprised of bandmen, cheerleaders, Indians, OUampi and a few Iowas. Departure time is 5:45 a.m. on the south side of the Fieldhouse.

After the 2 p.m. tilt, the group will travel to Salina, Kansas, where they will stay over night at the Ramada Inn.

Dr. Francis Hurst, professor of psychology, is acting as chaperon.

Student Council To Study Its Constitution, NSGA

By Randy Owens

University of Omaha student government, in addition to taking a close look at its own present make-up, is exploring and examining similar state and national student systems.

Just the simple fact that OU Council members will be attending the Nebraska Student Government Association conference in Lincoln, Dec. 1-2, is a significant stride in a direction little pursued by OU Councils of the past.

The NSGA is made up of eleven Nebraska colleges, including the University of Nebraska. President of the Association is Richard Thompson, a student at NU.

Our Council's purpose will be to investigate and evaluate, then determine, whether or not OU should seek membership in the organization.

The five member team (Denny Jorgensen, Jerry Ferguson, Ed Ganey, Susan Boyle, and myself) will carry along the 20 necessary for membership in NSGA to facilitate our joining if we do so decide. The conference fee is $35.

Among items of significant concern at the meetings will be campus problems (such as housing, student government legislation, etc) and communication between the state campuses.

One facet of particular interest to the OU Council is the NSGA newsletter, published monthly by its executive secretary-treasurer. The publication is compiled and printed on the campus of the NSGA President at the expense of the Association.

Materials for the newsletter are sent in from all member schools and are subsequently printed in the monthly publication.

The statewide higher education publication would complement the national newsletter the OU Council has recently subscribed to, the Intercollegiate Press Bulletin.

Calling itself "the only weekly newsletter devoted to current college events published during the academic year," the Bulletin for 1967-68 cost the Council $40.

The national publication will be on file in the Student Council office, Student Center, Room 250, for any student to examine.

Moving to the internal affairs of our student government establishment, the proposed structure for a new student government will be introduced to the Council at Wednesday's meeting.

Scheduled for 3:30 p.m. in Student Center, Room 234, the meeting will be primarily concerned with the study of the new Constitution set up by the Constitution Revision committee.

The merger, of course, will be a timely topic Wednesday, also. The all-school convocation will be at 9:30 a.m., all classes will be dismissed for that hour. Plans include a short explanation of merger developments, etc. and an invitation to students to join in the campaign. OU President Kirk E. Naylor will also answer any questions.

As you know, room 234 is now, and will be until Dec. 12, Student Merger Headquarters. We still need many workers. Precinct captains for the 280 precincts are needed by Wednesday.

President's Wife Leads Busy Life

By Suzanne Wolff

"You know, I'm happiest when I am very busy," smiled Mrs. Kirk Naylor.

And this seems to be so, for besides her four children, of prime importance, she keeps herself occupied every minute of the day.

Mrs. Naylor received two degrees in music, art and drama at Bethany College in Lindsborg, Kansas. Putting this to good use, she taught music on the high school level for four years.

Serves Public

Much of Mrs. Naylor's activity centers around public service. She is involved with work at the Rockbrook Methodist Church, as an executive member of the Omaha Women's Club and she has worked with the YWCA and the Girl Scouts.

As wife of OU's president, Mrs. Naylor enjoys meeting people and acting as hostess. She finds, however, that one undesirable aspect is that Dr. Naylor spends so many hours away from home.

Merger Will Help

When she has some spare time, which is very seldom, Mrs. Naylor enjoys porcelain and china painting and has exhibited many of her pieces.

How does she feel about the merger? "It will definitely help the community," answered Mrs. Naylor. She feels that there are many who cannot attend because of high tuition, and that the merger "will make education possible for all who desire it."

Mrs. Naylor is helping with the merger in her own quiet way. "I put literature into anyone's hands who doesn't know what is happening."

Mrs. Naylor's only regret is that she cannot get to know more of OU's students.

Leadership committees for the OU-NU merger is the chief current activity of Omicron Delta Kappa, junior and senior men's honorary.

Recent activities include a Homecoming gathering for alumni and a Halloween visit to Children's Memorial Hospital.

According to President Jim Sandoz, the purpose of ODK is to recognize and encourage the achievement of exemplary character and superior quality in leadership and scholarship.

The honorary contains few men, since membership is limited to a small percentage of the male enrollment. Exact qualifications are character plus eligibility in scholarship, athletics, social and religious affairs, publications and speech, drama and music.

Potential members are screened and interviewed by an ODK committee. New members are then tapped at the all-school Spring Sing.

Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity took honors all around last Friday at the Sigma Showboat.

Daryl Taylor of Lambda Chi was named Typical Fraternity Man, and their trio of Ron Cisar, Chuck Saylor and Daryl Taylor won first place for fraternities in the talent contest.

Suz Giller and Joan Thomas, Chi Omega, topped the Sororities with a duet. Winners of the talent contest received trophies.

Junior Jets Cheer OU To Victory Over 'Benson'

"Indians, get going, you fatsoes!"

That was a typical warning to the football team last Saturday as the "Junior Jets" invaded OU's stadium. The 25 youngsters from the Omaha Home for Boys were guests of Arnold Air Society and Angel Flight at the Omaha U vs. Emporia game.

Besides the usual cheering, strange statements were heard in the stands:

"What's that Indian doing here?"

"Which ones are we for, the reds or the whites?"

"What if it snowed? Would they still play? Well, what if they couldn't see the lines, would they paint them black?"

"Oh, you rotten egg, you lost the ball."

"I bet Omaha U. could beat Benson."

"One of those guys could smash you, couldn't they? I hope they don't like to pick on little kids."

Offering a comment on the freezing temperatures, one youngster was heard to ask, "If your toes got completely frozen, could you break them off?"

And so it was with the help of the Junior Jets that OU won 31-26.

Lindfors Opens Show

By John Markey

Curtain opens. A faded and chipped brick wall is barely discernable in the dimmed blue lights that fall on a set of rickety tables and benches.

Enter (stage right) — Two young ladies, preceding two young men. They are all chattering and laughing. Both ladies are adorned in loose dresses that reach six inches above the knee, their shapely legs sheathed in silk tights.

The young man on the left is tall, thin, has a bushy and unkempt beard, a mustache, long hair and is wearing a red vest. In general, he looks like a prophet. The other man is tall, well-built, handsome and has a head of black hair that hangs on his forehead and shaggily around his ears. He wears a corduroy coat, and tight, black slacks.

Play Initiates Festival

The scene is set. The players are ready. This was the setting for "Three Boards and a Passion," a theatrical anthology on the acting profession by Swedish actress Viveca Lindfors and her crew of Strolling Players.

Played Nov. 2 at 8 p.m. in the University Auditorium, the production initiated the Fine Arts Festival.

Miss Lindfors was an actress in Sweden before moving to the U.S. twenty years ago. Here, she has had television roles in "Ben Casey," "The Nurses," and "The Defenders." Recently, she received the Best Actress Award at the Berlin Film Festival for her performance in "No Exit." All total, she has made 40 films.

Despite Miss Lindfors' excellent performance, David Birney and Sean O'Brien, male members of the quartet, were nearly good enough to overshadow their superior. In a mock Romeo and Juliet scene, Birney playing Romeo, looks balcony-ward and utters his famous line, "O! She doth teach the torches to burn bright." O'Brien, a servant here, looks at Juliet and then turns a puzzled face to Romeo and remarks, "She doth?"

Theatre, Strength? Intimacy

The anthology itself was put together especially for the Strolling Players who, incidentally, limit their performances to universities. "It's only the universities that are interested in this type of thing," stated Miss Lindfors; "The theatre has become a thing apart and people put it on a pedestal and believe it is not for them."

The theatre, as Miss Lindfors refers to it, does not include Hollywood spectacles that are considered theatrical art because of emphasis placed on setting. "Intimacy is the strength of the theatre," she proclaims, "All that is needed is 'three boards and a passion'."

Marcus Style Is Clean

By Ralph Fredericksen

The Adele Marcus piano recital in the Gene Eppley Conference Center Auditorium drew an overflow 400 people last Sunday.

Latecomers found no seats available and had to stand in the rear of the auditorium. Some were fortunate enough to get chairs on stage.

The one-and-a-half hour program featured Beethoven's Sonata in F-sharp Major, Opus 78; Chopin's Sonata in B Minor, Opus 58; Scriabin's Two Etudes, Opus 8; and Twelve Etudes Symphoniques, Opus 18, by Schumann. Miss Marcus treated the crowd by playing Brahms' Intermezzo in E-flat Minor in addition.

Performing before a crowd largely dominated by piano instructors and students, Miss Marcus was quite impressive. Her playing was exceptionally clean.

One had to sit close to catch her involved facial expressions while performing. Her emotional involvement showed in the many moods she created. Subdued, jovial, carefree, serious. All were present at one time or another during the recital, often during the same piece.

She received a rousing response from the audience. Coffee was served afterwards in the lounge.

Miss Marcus also presented a Seminar on the Teaching of Piano on Monday and Tuesday in the Conference Center Auditorium.

The concert and seminar session, a part of O.U.'s Fine Arts Festival, was sponsored by the Friends of Music at Omaha University.

Poet Gives Light Side

By Jane Giesing

Funny and frightening describes the poetry of William D. Snodgrass, Pulitzer Prize winner. Appearing in the Fine Arts Festival, Nov. 6, the teacher, writer and father read early and recent poems from his career.

"I don't want to leave you thinking love is that bad. It is. But I don't want to leave you thinking that."

A collection of love poems emphasizing the difficult side of romance warmed the audience to Mr. Snodgrass' humorous slant.

The first one, "The Lovers Go Fly a Kite," told the story of two people whose sessions flying a kite outlived "marriages and affairs and tarnished things like that."

The poet projected a light attitude toward life. Yet he seemed to deeply feel the impact of some of its ugly, unjust and insensible situations.

"A Flat One" illustrates the mixture of love and hate found in life. Taken from his days as an aid in the Veteran's Hospital in Iowa, the poem reflects the thoughts of a hospital aid who must dress the body of an old man. He is an "old soldier" the aid has been treating for nine months.

"... the animal had grown sick of the world and wanted to stop . . ." the verse says, but the man lived on. "He not so much fought to live as he fought not to die."

Realistic enough to create chills in every listener was the poem, "After Experience Taught Me." The voices of Spinoza, a Jewish philosopher, and a savage combat instructor clash within the mind of one man. Again, this man's thoughts compose the poem.

Gently the voice of Spinoza asks for peace. And the military man snarlingly explains how to kill a man barehanded with "forked fingers" to the eyes, pressing, and ripping away the "facial mask."

The quality of man, Mr. Snodgrass explained in relation to the poem, is more important than the quality of the ideas he is fed.

"We've been able to use the best tools around for the most ferocious actions."

Some 'Riverside' Music

The Riverside Singers' performance next Wednesday promises a program of imagination, originality and variety.

The six voice troupe will be heard in the Conference Center Auditorium at 8 p.m. as part of the Fine Arts Festival.

A repertoire of music from the Renaissance to the classical and romantic, including contemporary works, will be performed. The Singers feature an unusual arrangement of solos, duets, trios, quartets, quintets and sextets.

Their programs are presented principally for unaccompanied music or piano accompaniment, giving the Singers a greater field of expression.

Formed in 1958, the Riverside Singers are Eileen Laurence, soprano; Joan Mey, soprano; Barbara Crouch, mezzo-soprano; Martin Lies, tenor; Alan Baker, baritone and William Fleck, bass-baritone.

The group has performed on some of the nations leading concert stages including: The Library of Congress and National Gallery in Washington, New York's Hunter College, Town Hall and Carnegie Recital Hall and the Cleveland Museum of Art.

The group toured with the "Die Kammermusiker" of Zurich during that group's American debut tour in 1965.

The members of the ensemble received their early training at the Juilliard School of Music in New York and the Eastman School in Rochester, New York.

Admission to the concert is by ticket or Omaha University I.D. card.
